FUND UPDATE

The Advance Growth Multi-Blend Fund produced a positive absolute return over the month of April contributing to positive 12 month performance. Australian equity markets returned 2.5% over the month, bringing returns to 13.7% since the start of the year. Domestic equity markets ended the month above their September 2018 highs.

International developed markets outperformed domestic markets, with the MSCI World ex Australia index returning 4.6% in AUD terms, assisted by a 0.7% depreciation in the Australian Dollar vs. its developed market peers. Emerging markets returned 3.0% over the same period.

Domestic fixed interest returned 0.3% over the month, driven by a further tightening in credit spreads and falls in the short end of the fixed interest curve. Australian fixed interest monthly returns contributed to a 12 month return of the asset class of 7.9% outperforming the international benchmark - Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate, by 0.3% and 2.8% over the same time periods respectively.

Following strong first quarter returns, Listed Real Estate Investment Trusts declined in value over the month, Australian REITs returned -2.3% whereas international markets returned -1.1%. Australian REITs have now returned 18.0% over the 12 months period with international REITs delivering 11.7%.

The April Reserve Board Bank Meeting saw the decision to leave the Australian short rate unchanged at 1.5%. The decision was again repeated at the May meeting. The market is now pricing an increased chance of interest rate cuts following softer employment data. Market consensus now views a greater chance of an interest rate cut than no cut at the next RBA meeting. We expect the impact on asset pricing to be minimal should the RBA cut by 0.25% in line with market consensus.

Over the month higher growth diversified funds outperformed defensive funds over the month due to a high dispersion in underlying asset class returns.

MARKET COMMENTARY

Global shares continued to move upwards following on from the first quarter rally, as Central Banks remain dovish in the face of persistent downside risks.

Equity markets have not yet lost steam as the continuation of the first quarter rally made its way into April. The S&P 500 was up 4.05%, with the S&P/SAX 200 rising 2.37%. While the risks that weighed heavily on the minds of investors in the final months of 2018 remain present, an accommodative stance from Central Banks has largely supported the markets.

Trade negotiations between the US and China appeared to make progress with hopes that a deal may soon come to be, although uncertainty still prevails. The US reported an initial reading of first quarter GDP to be 3.2%, above consensus expectations of 2.3%, but the focus was on the composition of the report, being that more than half of the growth was driven by trade and inventories, with the risk that the improvement in net trade will not last and the renewed surge in inventories will be reversed.

An improvement in reported Chinese data was linked to the introduction of government stimulus earlier in the year. March quarter GDP was reported at a stronger than expected 6.4% pace. PMI indicators indicated both the manufacturing and non-manufacturing sectors remain in expansionary territory. While the pick-up in this data was seen to be positive, the surprise first quarter growth raised concerns amongst investors that the Chinese government may pull back stimulus, sending the Shanghai Composite down -0.04% for the month, against the momentum of other markets globally.

While the stronger economic data from the US and China gave some temporary relief, a slowdown in growth remains an issue across the Eurozone with data confirming this weakness. Officials and policymakers remain sceptical that the European economy will improve in the second half of this year, just as Germany cut its forecast to 0.5% in 2019, citing a challenging trade environment. The EU's relationship with the UK remains tense, as another extension to the Brexit leaving date to 31 October 2019 was granted.

Domestically, the Reserve Bank maintained its wait-and-see approach of both how global themes and conditions back at home develop, leaving the cash rate unchanged. This comes as disappointing headline CPI was reported to be flat in the March quarter at 1.3% (0.19% growth, below the consensus forecast of 0.2%), making it the slowest annual pace since the September quarter of 2016. The six-month annualised growth rate in core inflation sits at 1.2%, well below the RBA's target band of 2-3%, suggesting the case for a rate cut grows.

BENEFITS OF INVESTING IN THE FUND

The Fund invests in a diverse mix of assets with an emphasis (about 85%) on the growth oriented assets of Australian and international shares, and investment (about 15%) in the defensive assets of cash and fixed interest providing some income and stability of returns and has a high level of risk. The Multi-Blend approach is based on the belief that the different styles of each manager when combined, can produce a more consistent outcome for investors by minimising style and portfolio risk with a potential for long-term capital growth and enhanced performance through active management.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

To provide moderate to high total returns (before fees and taxes) over the medium to long term largely through capital growth by investing in a mix of growth and defensive assets.
